ABOUT ME

My name is Betretsion Aklilu and I am a dedicated software engineering student at Addis Ababa University, known for my good qualities in leadership, communication, and problem-solving skills. I have an ability to adapt, think critically, and collaborate effectively which make me a resilient and innovative team player, committed to delivering detailed and organized results. And my goal is to have my own software company filled with young programmers who have the same qualities and empower the world in to a better future.
